

OUR PLUCKY CONSUL.

Mr. Hanna Exhibits a Sample of True American Grit.

HE BRINGS DICTATOR MENDOZA

To Terms at Leguaya, in Venezuela. Mendoza Forced to Resign the Dictatorship and a New Government Is Being Formed—The Detained Merchantman's Owner Claims His Movements Are Not Warlike.

New York, Sept. 12.—The Herald's Panama dispatch says: Further news of the anarchical state of affairs existing in Venezuela has come here. General Pepper Fendosa, commandant at Lagunayra, on the morning of September 3 received orders from Caracas to squeeze a large sum of money from the merchants of that place.

General Echeverria, Pepper's adjutant, at once summoned all the leading merchants of the place to the governor's office, and when they were assembled informed them they were prisoners until they paid in sums ranging from $500 to $2,000. The German, Dutch, Swedish, Norwegian, Belgian, Brazilian, Argentine and Costa Rican consuls and American vice consul, Goldring, the agent of the Red D steamers, and the manager of Boylton's firm here were also arrested. An appeal was made to American consul Hanna for protection. Mr. Hanna at once saw the Spanish, British and French consuls, laid the facts before them, and they all agreed to act together. The commanders of the Dutch, French, Spanish and German war ships also promised their hearty co-operation. With this backing Mr. Hanna formally demanded the unconditional release of the other consuls and the foreign war ships.

Pepper hesitated. The foreign war ships got up steam, the Venezuelan forces beat to arms, and the guns at Fort Lavigia were run out.

For awhile the situation was serious and it looked as though a collision was unavoidable, but Mendoza, hearing of the situation, telephoned from Caracas for Pepper to comply with the demand and to do anything necessary to avert trouble. He then called his lieutenants to the Casa Amarilla, and resigned the dictatorship, proclaiming Guillermo Telavezaga-Pulido, a nephew of ex-President Villazas, as president and a member of the federal council.

Pulido at once began the formation of a cabinet, leaving Mendoza out. It is believed that Mendoza will attempt to escape from the republic with the booty he has secured from the pillage of the capital and from forced loans.

Generals Pepper and Echeverria called the consuls together at the office of the Spanish consul and informed them of the change in administration, and also informed them that hereafter they would respect foreign interests.

Consul Hanna is generally commended for the nerve and backbone displayed and the success of his firm stand in behalf of the imprisoned at a time when he was completely shut off from telegraphic communication with Minister Schrugge, of the state department.

THE DETAINED STEAMER.

Gonzales' Attorney Claims that the Vessel Carries a Legitimate Cargo—A Purely Business Matter.

New York, Sept. 12.—Francisco Gonzales, a merchant who consigned a ship load of ammunitions of war to himself at Port of Spain, Trinidad, and whose boat, the South Portland, containing the cargo, was detained by order of the United States government on Saturday, went to Washington yesterday to lay his case before the state department.

He was accompanied by Guillermo Smith, general agent for tobacco manufacturers, and Louis C. Raegener, a lawyer. Mr. Raegener has been Mr. Gonzales' lawyer for several years and advised his client that sending arms by the South Portland to Trinidad was regular.

According to his lawyer, Mr. Gonzales is the most important tobaccoist in Venezuela. When Mr. Raegener was asked what led Mr. Gonzales to buy a ship load of arms and ammunition he said: "I admit that Mr. Gonzales is a friend, I may say a partisan of Gen. Crespo. But these goods were not intended directly for the Crespoists or any other insurgent faction."

"Why did he try to clear the cargo for Port of Spain, Trinidad?" "Because he has a branch house there. It is his intention to have the South Portland sail to the Port of Spain and there unload," added the lawyer. "Then if Gen. Crespo is willing to pay for the ammunitions of war owned by Gonzales they will be shipped to Caracas or some other Venezuelan port under a manifest issued by the British government. If Crespo will not, or cannot pay for the arms, Gonzales will dispose of them as best he can. The whole affair is commercial speculation and there is nothing whatever in the laws of the United States to justify the secretary in refusing the vessel to leave this port."

"It sounds well to talk of international courtesy, but there is no government at this day in Venezuela. The country is in a condition approaching anarchy. Minister Perraza may be released of his authorities any moment. However, it is not on that ground that I base my appeal to the government of the United States for the release of the ship," continued Mr. Baegera. "I advised Mr. Gonzales and Guillermo Smith, who was his purchasing agent, that they would be within the law in making up the cargo. They declared the freight frankly and honestly. Then when the clearance papers were refused, carefully looked up the law and found that section 5,283 of the revised statutes declares it a misdemeanor for a citizen to fit out or furnish a vessel to cruise or commit hostilities against a nation at peace with the United States. Any one who did this would forfeit the boat and cargo."

"But we have not fitted up the South Portland as a cruiser. She could not engage in warfare. She is simply a merchant vessel with a legitimate cargo. If we have violated any law of the United States we are ready to take the consequences. We believe we have been acting properly, and that it is an outrage that our vessel should be detained."

UNPROVOKED MURDER

Of An American Sailor Simply Because He Was An American.

London, Sept. 12.—The latest advice received here from Genoa regarding the murder of Frank Reilly, the seaman of the United States steamer Newark, who was killed on the 8th of September in a lodging house in Genoa, show that national animus against Americans was the cause of the crime. The proprietor of the lodging house, when the Newark's men applied to him for lodging, used most abusive language to them simply because they were Americans. One of those present, knowing the proprietor, advised the men that it was unsafe for them to remain in the place. All the sailors started for the door, whereupon the proprietor with a knife in each hand sprang toward Reilly and stuck both the weapons in his back. Reilly staggered to the street, where he fell and died in a few minutes. The murder was entirely unprovoked and Reilly was killed for no other reason than that he was an American.

"The Limited Mail."

"The Limited Mail" company will appear at the Opera House this evening, producing one of the most thoroughly realistic pieces ever put upon the stage. The New York Journal says of this work:

"The mechanical and scenic effects are striking pictures of the real, and the departure of the limited mail, the escape and the wreck produce grand effects. As for the play, it abounds in fun, and there is a tinge of that homely pathos running through it that is always welcome and creative of interest. The wonderful mechanical effects of 'The Limited Mail' make it one of, if not the strongest attraction of its kind on the road."

Incidental to the play, Beatrice, the wonderful child artist, will appear in her wonderful contortion act and dance-gymnastics. Two pleasing acts, unsurpassed for grace, skill and daring.

The car of "The Limited Mail" will be on exhibition opposite the public building at 11 o'clock this morning.

Fail to Do Our Duty.

Everybody has at times failed to do their duty towards themselves. Hundreds of lady readers suffer from sick headache, nervousness, sleeplessness, and female troubles. Let them follow the example of Mrs. H. Herbecher, Stevens Point, Wis., who for five years suffered greatly from Nervous Prostration and sleeplessness, tried physicians and different medicines without success. But one bottle of Dr. Miles' Nervine caused sound sleep every night, and she is feeling like a new person. Mrs. Elizabeth Wheeler, Laramie City, Wyoming, who tried all other remedies, declares that after three weeks' use of the Nervine for Headache, Nervous Prostration, etc., she was entirely relieved. Although John Mays and wife testified that they saw him in Charleston and Elk City on the afternoon and evening of the murder, Mays testifying that he saw him in front of Mr. Samples' house between 10 and 11 o'clock, or a few minutes before the murder, an alibi was easily proven by the testimony of Din Carvin, Squire Adkins and others of Brownstown. Doss was at a Catholic festival there on the night and almost on the minute of the murder. Of course he was dismissed from custody. It is understood that others are suspected and one or more arrests may follow shortly.

CATARRH OF THE STOMACH.

Poor Appetite, With Violent Pains and Nausea After Eating.

A Case That Is of Interest to Every One Who Suffers from Indigestion. Terrible Suffering Night and Day.

Do you eat well? If so, you enjoy one of the great blessings of life.

But how many people are there who never know what it is to enjoy a meal? The more the taste is rendered to the less the appetite manifest itself. Instead, perhaps, there is a decided revulsion, and the food that one must eat to keep the body alive is forced into an unwilling stomach, only to cause intense pain and a sickening nausea.

Why is this? Did you ever stop to consider the reason? Dr. Copeland and Davis have from time to time in these columns endeavored to point out the cause of dyspepsia or disordered digestion, and that their explanation is the correct one is evidenced by the many cures their method of treatment is producing every day.

Physiology teaches that the numerous glands of the stomach throw out during the twenty-four hours fourteen pints of gastric juice—almost two gallons—with which to digest the food we eat. In chronic catarrh of the stomach, the mucous lining of which is continuous with that of the nose and throat, the secreting glands become diseased and degenerated and do not fulfill their proper functions, hence the food lies heavy in the stomach and ferments instead of being digested. Foul gases arise therefrom which distend the stomach, causing weight, tightness, flatulence, bloating and discomfort. The heart and lungs are encroached upon by the diaphragm which impedes their natural action, hence we have fluttering or palpitation, and in consequence of disturbed circulation and respiration, coldness of extremities, depression of spirits (nervousness), feeble pulse, dizziness, shortness of breath, hot and cold flashes, etc., etc.

A TYPICAL CASE.

The Many Distressing Symptoms, Which Follow Neglected Catarrh, Together with a Striking Example of the Efficacy of the Treatment of Drs. Copeland and Davis.

Mr. William M. West of Don't P. O., Ohio, who is well known in all the surrounding counties, makes the following statement in grateful appreciation of the kind and conscientious treatment received at the Copeland Medical Institute:

"I have been troubled for a number of years with pains in my head, over my eyes, the top of the head and in the temples. My head ached almost all the time; my nose would stop up, first one side and then the other; there was a continual discharge from my nose; also a constant dripping of mucus into the throat. I was kept busy hawking and spitting to keep my throat clear. My throat was dry, sore and irritated. I was short of breath and had severe pains in my chest and under shoulder blades. I felt nervous and depressed. I had frequent and severe dizzy spells, also ringing noises in my ears. My stomach was diseased. I had no appetite, and after eating felt heavy and bloated. I was restless at night, and would get up in the morning feeling tired and worn out. I lost sleep and strength. The doctor for it was catarrh—so affected my system that I was completely run down. I doctored considerably and used various patent medicines, but all to no avail."

"Under the treatment of Drs. Copeland and Davis my improvement has been entirely satisfactory, my head and throat are clear, my stomach all right, I sleep well, feel renewed and strong; in fact, I feel first-class. I heartily recommend their treatment to those suffering with any chronic disease."
